

The Daily Courant.

Saturday, March 17. 1716.

From the Paris Gazette, dated March 21.

Naples, February 18.

WE hear by some private Letters, that the Count de Thau is continued in his Viceroyalty, and that his Patent is brought by Count Stella, who is General of the Gallies of this Kingdom, in the Place of the Count de Fuencalada, whom the Emperor has made Viceroy of Sardignia. The Count de Caraffa and Wetzel, who went to Manfredonia, are all embarked, to be distributed upon the Coasts of the Adriatick Sea, to cover them from the Insults of the Corsairs of Delcigno, who have considerably augmented the Number of their Gallies. The little Resistance they met with last Year in the Places where they made Descents having encouraged them to greater Undertakings. The Recruits raised for the Italian Regiments that are in Hungary, are ready to depart immediately to go to Manfredonia, where they will find Ships to transport them to the Austrian States. Cannon and Ammunition are embarked here to be put into Reggio, Tarente, Brindis, and other Places on the Coast, that they may be in Condition of not fearing a Surprise from the Infidels. Orders are given to Carcen the Gallies, and prepare them to go to Sea upon the first Command: But before that, a Reform is to be made by Order of the Court of Vienna, to suppress many Abuses, and retrench a great deal of unnecessary Expence, which they intend to employ in putting them upon a better Foot and augmenting the Naval Forces. They talk of choosing a new Elect of the People, by reason of the Complaints that are made upon the dearth of Provisions, occasioned by the great Mortality of Cattle.

Rome, Feb. 25. Count Gallasch, the Emperor's Ambassador, having obtained Leave to make a Journey to Vienna, took Leave of the Pope the 18th of this Month, and told him he would return about the Month of July. He has left behind him the greatest part of his Domesticks. Cardinal Paulucci went to visit him the 29th, and wished him in the Name of his Holiness a good Journey. A Courier is come to give Advice, that the Bolognese, to the Number of 300 Men well armed, went to the Places of the Dykes which were made in the Po to keep the Ferrarese from Inundation, and broke them: Whereupon the Pope has given Orders that rigorous Informations be made against the Authors of that Tumultuous Enterprize, and that the Dykes be repaired at the Expence of the Bolognese. Another Courier has reported, that some Gallies of Barbary were come and posted themselves between the Isle of Tremiti and Mount Gargan, with design to make some Enterprize upon the Coasts of the Marquisate of Ancona: Upon which a Military Congregation was held in the Presence of the Pope, to prevent the Danger wherewith the Subjects of the Ecclesiastical State are threatened by the powerful Armament of these Infidels. A Capital Sentence is published against the Esquire of the Ambassador of Venice and some others, who had insulted and ill-treated the Sbirri's.

Madrid, March 2. Yesterday in the Afternoon the Queen went Abroad the first time, to go with Ceremony to the Church of Notre Dame d'Atocha, to render Thanks to God for the happy Birth of the Infante Don Carlos: On which Occasion all the Streets she passed through were adorned with rich Tapistry and Triumphal Arches; especially the Street of the Goldsmiths, which was magnificently set forth with large Pieces of Plate, Busts, and Jewels. The Marquis del Vadillo, Corregidor of Madrid, marched at the Head with his Officers, and was followed by many of the King's Coaches wherein were the Principal Officers of the King and Queen: After them came their Majesties attended by the Ladies of the Palace, and a Detachment of the Guards. It was late before their Majesties came back from the Church, and they found at their return all the Streets illuminated, and all the Balconies of the Houses in the great Square and the Windows to the fifth Story furnished with two Flambeaux each. The King has given the Office of President of the Council of Castile to the Marquis de Mirabel Spicola, newly arrived from his Embassy in Holland.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 17.

Brussels, March 12. Upon the Request presented to the Sovereign Council of Brabant, upon Occasion of the Interdiction made by M. van Susteren, to bury the Corps of the late Countess of Catherine's, it was ordered to be communicated to M. van Susteren for his Opinion. In the mean time the Relations of the deceased having obtained a Letter from the new Archbishop of Mechlin, went with it to M. van Susteren, who after some Difficulties permitted them to present a Request to him, at the bottom of which he wrote, that he permitted the Corps to be buried, provisionally, and without Prejudice to what the Pope and the Archbishop shall think fit to Order thereupon. Accordingly the Body was taken from the Place where it was deposited, and it being free from all manner of ill Smell although it had lain 13 Days, it was uncovered, to give his People the Consolation of seeing him, and kissing his Hand: And on Monday Evening, the 9th Instant, he was buried, and the Day following a solemn Service was made for him.

Hague, March 17. The Answer of the Palatine Court to the Preliminary Points upon which the States General may propose the Cession of the Dutchy of Limburg to the respective Provinces, is not found explicate and clear enough: And therefore a Resolution was made thereupon last Week, which was communicated in a Conference to the Ministers of his Electoral Highness: The purport of it is, that their High Mightinesses insist, for very solid Reasons, upon having an Answer precise, and free from all Ambiguity, upon some Points, the principal whereof is, That of a Declaration on the part of his Imperial Majesty, that that Cession shall not be made a Pretext for any other Dismemberment of the Austrian Netherlands upon any Pretences whatsoever; and that upon all other Occasions the second Article of the Barrier Treaty, which is a Basis and Foundation for all the rest, may Subsist unalterable and intire. This shews, that unless unless the Palatine Court can prevail upon his Imperial Majesty to give a solemn Act, and explain himself amply upon the Points proposed by the States, the Affair is not like to be soon concluded. The Affair of Bonne also seems to be in Suspense, the rather since the States are corroborated by their Allies in their non-compliance with the Demand made by the Imperial Minister last Month, concerning the preservation of the ancient Fortifications of Liege and Huy. The Deputies of the States who have negotiated the Barrier Treaty, are upon their way home, their Commission being finished; but the Intendants Peters will remain still at Brussels, to attend the Execution of the Regulation of the Limits agreed upon by that Treaty, and what remains more to be done.

London, March 17.

On Thursday came on the Trial of the Earl of Winton, upon the Impeachment of the House of Commons for High-Treason. Many Witnesses proved him to have acted in the late Rebellion; and his Lordship having not attempted to invalidate their Testimony, and made very little Defence, he was Yesterday found Guilty by his Peers.
